

Foodways in the development of inequality at Arslantepe, Turkey, from 4200 to 3500 BCE (Late Chalcolithic 2-4)

Unterstützt von / Supported by

Alexander von Humboldt
Stiftung/Foundation

WORKSHOP

Berlin, 5th of May 2017, Freie Universität, Raum L116 im Seminarzentrum

9.30 Welcome

9.35 Prof. Marcella Frangipane

Arslantepe in the first half of the 4th millennium BC: an emerging centralized society

10.20 Maria Bianca D'Anna

And then? Pots and food in period VI A

11.05 coffee break

11.30 Carolin Jauss, discussant, with Francesca Balossi Restelli, author,

A view from the pots: Food manipulation and consumption

12.15 Birgül Öğüt, discussant, with Lucia Mori, author,

Grinding, pounding, crushing in an ancient kitchen. Preliminary notes on the macro-lithic tools

13.00 Lunch Break

14.00 Christoph Purschwitz, discussant, with Cristina Lemorini, Davide D'Errico and Daniela Zampetti, authors

Chipped stone tools and food processing: the case study of Arslantepe (Malatya, Turkey) VII

14.45 Sabine Karg with Laura Sadori, Cristiano Vignola, Alessia Masi, authors

Plant remains from the three phases of period VII (Late Chalcolithic 3-4) at Arslantepe (Malatya)

15.30 Coffee break

15.45 Norbert Benecke, discussant, with Laszlo Bartosiewicz, author,

Variability in Chalcolithic meat consumption at Arslantepe: a many-sided problem

16.30 Alicia Ventresca Miller, discussant, with Paola Iacumin, author,

Late Chalcolithic populations in Arslantepe site: stable isotope reconstruction of diet and subsistence strategies.

17.15 general discussion and comments

The workshop will be structured without formal presentations. Each paper shall be first presented and commented upon by the discussant and will be followed by the author's response and the discussion by all participants. Only Frangipane and D'Anna will present their papers as introductory issues to the workshop theme.